

Integral Security Concept for the Graubünden Cantonal Administration

In accordance with the Civil Protection Act, the Swiss canton of Graubünden ensures the cantonal administration's ability to act in the event of special and extraordinary circumstances. We supported and assisted an internal administration project team by analysing the current situation in the areas of occupational health and safety and business continuity management (BCM). Together, we outlined the "Integral Safety Administration Canton of Graubünden" concept and elaborated recommendations for implementation.

Our services

- Ascertaining the current situation and defining the target situation
- Developing the "integral safety" concept, including a mission statement, tasks, competences and responsibilities for the areas of business continuity management (BCM) and occupational safety and health protection
- Developing a BCM program, including a crisis management team, standardized tools and any crisis team exercises
- Recommendations for action on occupational safety and health protections (safety system)
- Writing the final report on the preliminary project
